At the September 18 North Saanich Council meeting, 89 property owners petitioned council to be included in the new southeast quadrant sewage collection system. The property owners want to reverse a decision preventing them from connecting to the new sewage system.

In a background paper attached to the petition, the excluded property owners explain that "all [excluded] properties are located beside, across the road from, or surrounded by neighbor's properties who are now or will be connected to sewer." They cite the Bonnet-Payne neighborhood, a small pocket of homes surrounded by Dean Park, as setting a precedent for their request to be included. The Bonnet-Payne properties were originally left out of the sewer project, but council later decided bring them in.

Also attached to the petition, is a copy of a June 6, letter from Gary Gibson, Chief Environmental Health Officer for the Capital Health Region. In his letter, Gibson refers to various site constraints in the area that could create seasonal or long-term problems with septic systems on the excluded properties. He said that winter rains in the Mt. Newton area "create situations where the soil cannot effectively treat the effluent and potential break-outs are possible."

He also referred to the relatively small lot sizes in the area as making repairs and replacements of existing systems costly and difficult. Jack Parry, Municipal Engineer, has stated that there is sufficient capacity in the Unified Sewage Treatment Plan (USTP) to bring the excluded southeast quadrant properties

The crumpled remains of the Star Ruby were pulled to the surface by a barge that had been operating in the vicinity of a collision last Thursday between the pleasure craft and B.C. ferry Spirit of Vancouver Island. Two people died as a result of the accident.

A woman who clung to life for four days after the collision of a power boat with the Spirit of Vancouver Island ferry last week has died. Her life support was turned off Sunday at the request of her family.

The woman, 71-year-old Lois Larson of Anchorage, Alaska, was removed from the water soon after the accident. She died in hospital September 17 as a result of anoxia due to drowning.

Her husband, 72-year-old Bernard Allen Larson of Port Angeles, died as a result of injuries sustained in the collision.

The Star Ruby was struck by the BC Ferry vessel near Swartz Bay at about 11:15 on the morning of September 14.

First on the scene was Derek Morrison, an off-duty policeman who was working on his boat near his Piers Island home. He said he heard the ferry sound five warning signals, signifying a vessel on a possible collision course. A second five-signal warning was blown, followed by seven more soundings of the ferry's horn.

He went immediately to the scene, and was able to pull Bernard Larson from the water.

Larson was conscious and able to tell Morrison there was another person on board the submerged boat.

"The Spirit of Vancouver Island stopped immediately and lowered a lifeboat," said Betty Nicholson, spokesperson for BC Ferries. She added that other rescue vessels arrived at the scene almost immediately. The accident occurred near the Colburne Passage Beacon, soon after the Tsawwassen bound ferry left the Swartz Bay Terminal.

The Star Ruby, an 11-metre Tollycraft based in Port Angeles, was cut in two by the collision. A

Break & enter at church

Thieves entered St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church on Tuesday, Sept. 12 by prying open a door at the rear of the building.

The church, located on Third Street in Sidney, was entered sometime over night. The Sidney/North Saanich RCMP were notified about the crime by individuals from the church at about 11:30 that morning.

Desks, lockers and storage lockers were rummaged through, and a small amount of cash was taken.

Police continue to investigate. Anyone with any knowledge about this or any other crime should call the RCMP at 656-3931 or CrimeStoppers at 386-TIPS (8477).

Operation Impact 2000

Sidney/North Saanich RCMP will be taking part in Operation Impact on Saturday, Oct. 7.

Operation Impact is a national program intended to raise the awareness of the dangers of impaired driving and of the importance of wearing a seat-belt.

Every year, car crashes kill almost 3,000 people and injure approximately 220,000 more, statistics say.

At least 1,100 people are killed each year in crashes involving drinking drivers, says Ontario Provincial Police Deputy Commissioner Maurice Pilon, national spokesperson for Operation Impact 2000.

Ferry collision

FROM FRONT

CKNW reporter, who happened to be aboard the Spirit of Vancouver Island at the time of the accident, said that a call went out for divers as soon as the accident occurred and three rescue boats were launched immediately. Other witnesses report the Star Ruby passed beneath the ferry, then surfaced in its wake just before sinking.

Passengers John and Avril Williams, visiting from Sheffield, England, told reporters they didn't see or hear anything unusual prior to the accident.

Constable Tracey Rook, Sidney/North Saanich RCMP, said the Star Ruby was examined at the Institute of Ocean Sciences to ascertain whether a mechanical system failure contributed to the accident.

The police have confirmed that the collision is not a criminal matter, and they are continuing to assist the BC Coroner's Service in its ongoing investigation.

Coroner Rose Stanton, who performed the autopsies, reported that the results of toxicological studies are expected within three weeks. Her findings, as well as those of the RCMP, Transportation Safety Board Canada, Fisheries and Oceans and BC Ferries will be included in the judgements of inquiry into the circumstances of the Larsons' deaths.

into the project.

In an article published by the Peninsula News Review several weeks ago, Mayor Lind Michaluk is quoted as saying that she believes the process for making the decision was less than satisfactory. "I think the fact that you have a process deemed at the time to be inclusive and exhaustive, but now that there are others saying 'what about me', I think it wasn't a good process," said Michaluk.

The decision-making process she refers to was initiated and carried out by a previous council.

Councillor Bill Bird submitted a motion that the petition requesting that certain properties be included in the sewer collection system for the Southeast Quadrant, form a basis of a Council-initiated local improvement project as set out in Section 629 of the Local Government Act and that staff be instructed to commence the notification process for the Council Initiative method.

The motion passed, with councillors Sheila Irving, Keith Thomas, and Mayor Michaluk opposed.

Vancouver Island Regional Library

Do we stay, or do we go?

Judy Reimche

Peninsula News Review

WHO DO THE GREATER VICTORIA PUBLIC LIBRARY AND VANCOUVER ISLAND REGIONAL LIBRARY SERVE?

VIRL, with 38 libraries throughout its system, is the ninth largest library system in Canada, serving 425,263 people. Its service area includes most of Vancouver Island — including Sooke but excluding Greater Victoria and the Western Communities — and ranges north to include the Queen Charlotte Islands and Powell River (in the Central Coast Regional District). There is no central branch.

- 1999 expenditure - $12,536,021
- Collection volume - 757,736
- Circulation - 4,144,887

GVPL, with eight municipal libraries, is the 18th largest system in Canada, serving a population of 261,479 people. Its service area includes Greater Victoria and the Western Communities, with its central branch in Victoria.

- 1999 expenditure - $8,366,033
- Collection volume - 621,122
- Circulation - 3,650,921

WHY DID THE MUNICIPALITIES CONSIDER CHANGING LIBRARY SERVICE?

Councils began in 1997 to look at whether local residents were receiving good value from the current library system.

That concern came following large budget increases levied on member municipalities in the preceding three years. In 1995, the total member payments to VIRL was $8.12 million — up by 6.45 percent.

In 1996 the payment was $8.19 million, increasing by 9.68 per cent and in 1997 it went up another 9.67 percent, to $9.7 million. In 1998 and 1999 the payment rose by 4.77 percent and 6.05 percent, respectively. As of 2000, the annual payment was $11.36 million (up 4.61 percent from the previous year).

During that same time period, the member payments to GVPL (excluding the Western Communities) were: 1995 - 0.00%; 1996 - 2.85%; 1997 - 0.00%; 1998 - 1.61%; 1999 - 1.81%; 2000 - 2.72%. Dollar cost ranges from $5.82 million in 1995 to $6.14 million in 2000.

Also in 1997, Western Communities pulled out of the VIRL and joined Victoria's system. They say the reasons were mainly concerns over the financial situation at VIRL.

Information from VIRL confirms that there were some major expenses in the early and mid 1990s, due in part to accelerated population growth across Vancouver Island (services being needed to keep pace with the larger population) and in part due to changes in the Library Act. Under the old rules, facilities that had been provided free of charge were now going to have to pay rent. That led to a period of adjustment, where communities whose facilities were below average for the province were improved.

Then, there were expenses to be paid for Western Communities' withdrawal. VIRL picked up the tab for the costs of negotiations, arbitrators, etc., and when the Western Communities withdrew, there were costs due to the loss of scale.

GVPL's figures show steady increases over those years, however, that system did not have the same capital costs and extraneous costs as did VIRL.

VIRL serves a large region, including a large number of small communities who cannot afford to pay for library service on their own. To ensure service to those more remote communities, costs are shared among the larger communities who can afford service.

It should also be noted that this plan is completely separate from a development proposal that would have seen changes to Resthaven Drive and the Memorial Rose Garden in Sidney. That was a proposal that came to Sidney council as part of a seniors development plan, which has not gone forward.

THE REFERENDUM QUESTION

"Are you in favor of the District/Town of (Sidney, North Saanich or Central Saanich) adopting [a bylaw] to withdraw from the Vancouver Island Regional Library District?"

WHERE IT BEGAN

May 1997 - Western Communities pulled out of the Vancouver Island Regional Library to join the Greater Victoria Public Library system. That left the VIRL branches on the Saanich Peninsula as the last two on the Island south of the Cowichan Valley.

April, 1998 - the Tri-Municipal committee met to discuss the idea of joining GVPL. At that time, each agreed to appoint a representative to a steering committee to deal with all library issues.

August, 1999 - the Tri-Municipal council endorsed its steering committee recommendations.

April 2000 - resolutions were passed by the three councils to proceed with the referendum on Sept. 30 on delivery of library services. That led to the appropriate bylaws being drawn up, and adopted by each council in July, 2000.

Referendum September 30

ADVANCE POLLING:

Wednesday, Sept. 20 and Wednesday, Sept. 27
8 a.m. - 8 p.m.

North Saanich Municipal Hall, Central Saanich
Municipal Hall, Sidney Town Hall

THE VOTING STRUCTURE

In the VIRL, all municipalities have one vote. Sidney, Central Saanich and North Saanich each have one vote of out a total of 35. A simple majority is required for the approval of motions.

In the GVPL, if the Peninsula communities vote to join, there will be a 22-member board of directors from municipalities, much like the board of the Capital Regional District. Sidney, North Saanich and Central Saanich will have one vote each. For routine matters, a simple majority vote is required; for major decisions (such as leases and capital purchases) two-thirds consent is required.

COSTS TO JOIN GVPL

If the vote is Yes, there will be a cost. The two libraries will have to give up all but 15 percent of their assets in the two Peninsula branches, VIRL having estimated that the Peninsula pays about 15 percent of the overall budget. That means, starting in 2002 when the withdrawal would take place, the municipalities would have to begin replacing their share of the book inventory for the library service.

Based on 1998 figures from VIRL, the municipalities expect the increased cost (cost per $100,000 of residential property assessment) in 2002 to be $5.12 (Central Saanich), $4.82 (North Saanich) and $5.23 (Sidney).

After the first year, the highest projected annual increase for Central Saanich is $2.07; for North Saanich, $3.27; for Sidney, $3.37.

COSTS

According to information coming from the provincial government, the cost per capita in 1999 for the Saanich Peninsula was $29.48 for the VIRL system. Cost per capita for those accessing the GVPL was $32.

Expenditure per capita:
VIRL — $29.48 GVPL — $32
Expenditure on materials per capita:
VIRL — $3.42 GVPL — $5.71
Catalogued* volumes per capita:
VIRL — 1.8 GVPL — 2.4

VIRL statistics predict that the budget increases over the next five years will be between 3 and 4 per cent over each of the next five years for its system, and 2.5 to 4 per cent in GVPL's.

GVPL statistics say those are "estimates and projections."

* Catalogued volumes denotes hard cover books and does not include paperbacks

TOMORROW'S LIBRARY

If the vote is No, the issue will be put to rest, at least for now.

If one or more municipalities vote to withdraw, but not all three, then those municipalities who wish to leave must begin negotiations with GVPL all over again.

Science labs overcrowded

■ Teachers association says balancing safety and learning is essentially 'gutting' courses

Phil Jensen

Peninsula News Review

Saanich teachers are in dispute with the school district over lab class sizes in secondary schools.

The teachers' contract sets a limit of 24 students in classes where safety is a factor, and the Saanich Teachers' Association (STA) says the provision refers to all lab classes.

School district authorities say that interpretation isn't necessarily correct, but both sides agree some teachers are facing as many as 28 students in some lab classes.

In a recent news release Mike Hayes, the Saanich Teachers' Association President, stated that the situation is educationally unsound and potentially dangerous.

"Teachers believe in and want to be able to teach 'hands on — minds on' science," said Hayes, "but that can't happen in crowded labs built to accommodate 24 students."

He added that children learn best by doing, but the situation is forcing teachers to deliver textbook-centered courses.

Hayes reported that the situation has spilled over into middle school Home Economics and Industrial Education classes.

"Teachers have been told to stop the practice of involving their students in a full shop or Home Ec. program," he said.

"They are not to do anything in their classes which might be 'safety sensitive' — essentially gutting these courses."

The STA and the School District met last June and again this month, but nothing has been resolved in a dispute that has been before arbitration since 1999. Hayes said timetables for the school year are set and the possibility of finding ways to reduce class sizes has all but disappeared.

"The Board says it can't afford to have science and workshop classes of 24," Hayes said, "We feel that, for the sake of students, they can't afford not to."

In an interview with the Peninsula News Review, Jack Fleming, School District Superintendent, explained that the problem stems from the large monetary downsizing of two years ago, coupled with a new provincial contract for teachers. The contract required the district to hire more teachers, but no funding for the purpose was provided.

"We had to maximize kids [in the classes] so we could meet the requirements of the contract," said Fleming.

Fleming said the district has provided each school with a support worker to assist in labs which may be dangerous, thus reducing the teacher student ratio in those classes.

"In the meantime," he said, "We are continuing in the process of arbitration, which is the proper process to resolve these issues."

Arbitration hearings are set to reconvene in October.

Peninsula Library Referendum

Dear Residents of Central Saanich, North Saanich and Sidney, The Vancouver Island Regional Library (V.I.R.L.) Board is proud of the service it provides on the Saanich Peninsula and is committed to ongoing improvements in the future and keeping within our budget projections.

We are confident that the cost per capita of the Peninsula Municipalities staying with V.I.R.L. is significantly lower than the cost of joining G.V.P.L.

We believe it is not in your best interest to risk having to pay up to $1.8 million to replace assets in the branches and to face the closure of Peninsula branches for up to three months.

We understand that some people would like to use the branches of G.V.P.L. as well as V.I.R.L. We are committed to pursuing an agreement so that Peninsula residents will also be able to use G.V.P.L. branches without paying a special fee and without joining G.V.P.L.

We value our long relationship with the Saanich Peninsula and hope you will choose to remain part of V.I.R.L.

We encourage you to stay with V.I.R.L.

On September 30th

Sincerely,
The Board of the Vancouver Island Regional Library

Senanus debate

Solution, not access to water, in question in Central Saanich

Laura Lavie

Peninsula News Review

The District of Central Saanich's Water and Waste Management Committee meeting was moved to the Fire Training Centre on Monday, Sept. 11 to accommodate the overflow crowd that came to hear the committee discuss the proposed Federal/Provincial Grant application for a waterline extension to the Senanus area.

The meeting began with Water and Waste Management Committee Chairperson Councillor Andrew Harcombe making a brief statement to the assembly that he would like to keep the comments on the topic and warned speakers to, "stay away from personal conflict," and, "avoid personal criticisms."

Many local residents spoke out against the waterline extension plan. Several pointed out that they felt it would not be a wise use of Grant monies, or tax dollars. It was also pointed out that, according to the Central Saanich Official Community Plan of 1979, the Senanus area was designated as Estate Residential with a lower level of municipal services. By definition, this meant an area with no water or sewer service, no fire hydrant service, limited snow removal service etc. This aspect of the Official Community Plan has not changed in over 20 years.

Michael M'Gonigle, Chair of the Water Advisory Task Force, continued to advise the committee to accept the recommendations of the Task Force and contact the residents of Senanus individually to facilitate a resolution of their reported problems. The Task Force's report also included the recommendation that, in the unlikely event that individual solutions were not adequate, it recommended moving to a local communal system, using communal wells or a very small pipe from the municipal system, flowing to a small reservoir. They also determined that Senanus area residents using large capacity cisterns reported much higher indoor usage satisfaction ratings than those with smaller, or no cisterns at all.

Peter Kittredge, of the municipality's Water Advisory Task Force, made a presentation to the committee based on his September, 5 letter to council.

Kittredge stated in his letter, "The municipality's Water Advisory Task Force, of which I am a member, has provided Council with a volume of factual information on this issue in addition to its two considered reports — a Preliminary Report dated April 30, 1999 and a Final Report dated June 14, 1999. None of the Task Force's factual information on the Senanus issue nor its reasoned conclusions and recommendations have been disseminated by Council to either the Senanus area residents or to residents in the larger "white area" [an area not marked by cross hatching on a map of the Senanus/Mount Newton Cross Rd. region] — that area not serviced by municipal water. I believe this critical lack of factual information has allowed a campaign of calculated misinformation by a few residents of Senanus."

Kittredge presented tables summarizing the Senanus area water quantity and quality questionnaire responses from December 1998 which showed 50 per cent of respondents reported no significant water quantity problems, and 45 per cent reported no water quality problems at all.

In May, 1999 the municipality and the Capital Health Region commissioned an independent hydrogeologist to assess the Senanus area aquifer and the residential water distribution systems. The Lowen Report, as it became known, determined that, "there is no health problem with the Senanus area aquifer." This finding contradicted the March 4, 1999 report by the Capital Health Region's Health Protection and Environmental Services.

The March 4, "Bradbury Report," found, "the aquifer the residents rely on is incapable of supplying good water and that the situation will only get worse."

Frank Towler of the Central Saanich West Voters Association, read aloud from a few of his many letters to council outlining some of the residents' beliefs that the aquifer is deadly, and that they feel council has neglected the problem and delayed a solution that would solve their water quality and quantity issues.

Senanus area residents are divided on the issue. One large portion of the residents support a waterline extension to rid them of their poor water quantity and what they feel and have been told in the past is water that could be unsafe for drinking, and even bathing.

The other large contingent, appearing to be about half of the residents heard from, feel that they have dug better wells or installed cisterns at their own expense and are happy with the quality and quantity of their water, and therefore should not have to shoulder the expense of the pipeline. They agree that the other residents' problems are caused by a lack of maintenance to their in-house water systems, which can result in bacterial contamination.

The Water and Waste Management committee began the discussion of the issue with Mayor Hunter's statement, "I am glad to hear both perspectives. [but] I will not support water going down Mount Newton, a better choice would be to look at alternatives and improving systems. I did not say I do not want Senanus to have water. I will not support [the] Mount Newton [route]."

Councillor Jack Mar said, "I have no problem with supporting water to the people of Senanus, it's just not the right route. All the residents of Central Saanich should be allowed potable water." Mar then made a motion to apply for provincial/federal funding for a waterline on West Saanich Road.

Coun. Alison Habkirk argued that the motion was not consistent with the petition which requested a watermain extension from its present termination point on Mount Newton Cross Road to service those parcels of land in the specified area.

Mayor Wayne Hunter added he would not support the motion, saying: "if the residents wish to put another survey [on the West Saanich route] together that's their business."

Mar withdrew his motion.

Hunter then made a motion that the request for the infrastructure grant for a waterline down Mount Newton Cross Road be denied. The motion was carried.

Hunter then made another motion that information be sent to the Central Saanich West Voters Association that outlined the denial of the Mount Newton route, and to communicate with them regarding further petitions [regarding the West Saanich route] which may find further support.

Habkirk agreed, saying: "It's not about providing safe potable water, it's about the solution that has been proposed — a solution that is palatable to the whole community, and our willingness to find a solution."

Councillor Michelle Haddon also appeared to agree with the West Saanich Road solution. "I'm not against the people down there having water. The West Saanich Road is a much more viable option."

Hunter's motion to officially inform the Central Saanich West Voters Association was passed by a unanimous vote.

The Water and Waste Management Committee postponed the further consideration of correspondence and proposed terms of reference for the Water Advisory Task Force due to the lateness of the hour.

EDITORIAL

Bringing in business

We have attempted to wade through the mounds of information, much of it contradictory, on library services so people on the Peninsula could get a better concept of what their choices are before going to the polls on September 30.

The exercise has not been made easier by the information put out by the Vancouver Island Regional Library and Greater Victoria Public Library systems, nor has there been up-to-date information laid out by the three municipalities. It's not that any of it is wrong, but each has its own interpretation.

So we relied on comparison data put out by the provincial government. But like most statistics, unless you know exactly what those are based on, there are further interpretations made — by the person assembling the data and by the reader.

The questions about service (where it should come from and what should it look like) have been asked by municipalities for about 10 years. Now people will have a chance to answer at least the question about who should provide service when they vote on September 30. How many people will actually get out to vote is the real question, since statistics also tell us only about 50 per cent of the population uses the library system — not just on the Peninsula, but provincewide.

To us, the real test of this process has been the ability of the three councils to work together. This was a golden opportunity for the members to put personal feelings aside and work together on public issues. To a certain extent, they have done that. But in some individual cases, the personal biases have been all too evident. And that's bad for all of us.

This process should have laid the basis for negotiation on further shared services, a scenario that must happen as costs continue to escalate and as, each year, municipalities are shouldered with more responsibilities formerly undertaken by the provincial government. It will be a case of taking control and getting the job done or having the province taking over and perhaps not getting the desired results.

Mayors and councils represent the people, and their offices should be treated with dignity and respect, by the general public and certainly by each other. That has been eroded in this process by some members. Who the people are who hold the offices is certainly not irrelevant — everyone should be treated with respect. But more than that, the office itself is a trust that must be used and treated with dignity. Anything less than that is unacceptable.

As a society we have allowed our codes of behavior to become lax, and it's to the detriment of all of us. If our system is to retain even a semblance of democracy, politicians must remember why they are at the table.

The rest of us need to remember our own role, and get out to vote.

BC FERRIES DELIBERATES THE FATE OF THE BRENTWOOD-MILL BAY FERRY.

And your name is ... ???

What's in a name, old Bill Shakespeare once famously wrote.

Answer: plenty. Take the case of a convicted bank robber in Adelaide, Australia who is now free and walking the streets. He was in the slammer serving a 10-year sentence until a criminal court judge ruled that the jury that convicted the man might have been unduly and subconsciously influenced by his given name. The judge overturned the unanimous verdict and ordered the man released forthwith.

The crook's name? Rob.
Rob Banks.

Sometimes there's justice. Sometimes people get the names they deserve.

The actress Audrey Hepburn was married to a Swiss psychiatrist with the endearing name of Doctor Dotti. There's a gas station attendant in Hatteras, North Carolina who answers to the name of Wheeler Balance. And there's a famous religious prelate in the Philippines known to all the world as Cardinal Sin.

If you have access to a Greater Manhattan telephone book you can look up a chap in the West Sixties who is listed as Mister Pleasant Finch.

And if there's any justice there, he's a birdwatcher.

Sometimes you have to wonder what people were thinking when they named their kids. There's a student in New Zealand who must live with the name Genghis Cohen — and another college freshman at Williams College in Massachusetts whose driver's license identifies him as Warren Peace.

I know of a resident of the Midwest who would swap names with either of them in a heartbeat. His (or her) name? Katz Meow.

Animals often bear the brunt of our penchant for handing out goofy names. The Algonquin wit

Dorothy Parker named her pet canary Onan, "because he spills his seed on the ground."

There's an aardvark at the London Zoo whose nameplate identifies him as Emilion.

Why Emilion?

Don't you remember the old Al Jolson hit?

*Aardvark Emilion miles for one of your smiles
my Mammmmmmmy!*

Sorry.

There's really no limit when it comes to silly names. There's a practicing attorney-at-law in Los Angeles named Lake Trout.

And he has a brother named Brook.

Of course, you don't have to put up with the name your parents gave you. Some people are willing to go to the trouble and expense of legally changing their name. A certain Mister A. Przbysz of Detroit, grew tired of the hassles caused by his over-consonanted handle, so he changed it. He now answers to Mister C. Przbysz.

Humperdinck Fangboner. Theodolphus J. Poontang. Mrs. Maginis Oyster. Marmalade P. Vestibule — there's no end of weird monikers.

My overall favorite? It's hard to choose, but it's also hard to beat a dowager who lives in North Carolina named Melissy Dalciny Caldony Yankee Pankee Devil-Take-The-Irish Garrison.

But even the simplest names can cause serious embarrassment.

I've got a friend by the name of Jack Jones. Simple name, right? What kind of trouble could come out of a name like that?

I found out one time when I spotted him striding through the Arrivals Level at Terminal Two of Pearson International Airport. Hadn't seen him for years, but he was walking fast in the opposite direction.

So naturally, I yelled at the top of my lungs: "HI, JACK!"

Vision or dream?

The strategy document Vision 2000 was supposed to serve as a guide to future development, a way of accommodating change without losing the small town character of Sidney which residents and visitors alike seemed to cherish. The first major test of Vision 2000 came last week at a Town Council meeting which included the public hearing into a proposed development at the entrance to the town.

Throughout two hours of public hearing, and in all of the soul-searching by councilors afterwards, the only mention of Vision 2000 was in the Mayor's summing up. When the vote was called, four out of six councilors voted in favor of the development and vision had gone, faded like a dream. Perhaps it was a dream, or maybe it was an illusion, a nice idea that couldn't survive the light of day. With it went the image of Sidney as a small seaside town; a nice place to visit and a pleasant place to live. In its place, a Duncan-like concept of commercial enterprises oriented to the traveling public.

The Travelodge property is not a big development, but its location at the entrance to the town is critical to the way people see the town and the way we see ourselves. Drive-through fast food outlets, a beer and wine store and an Irish pub, while they will certainly provide employment and might be a welcome oasis for passing motorists, will hardly enhance the character of the town as it was imagined in Vision 2000.

Perhaps we should start again, accepting that practical considerations and the overriding influence of business interests in the town are going to set the course of change for Sidney by the Sea. Something of the vision might be salvaged, but I think we might as well call the next attempt at a planning document Reality 2000.

Mike Moore

Remember us?

I think it is a great idea and the council has gone a long way by making Beacon friendly, and keeping the Sea Front for residents and tourists, not land owners.

But I am amazed at the tunnel vision of those concerned, when they laud things for tourists to see, they never mention a word about the British Columbia Aviation Museum!!

Is it because we are across Canora and therefore in the bedroom of Sidney called North Saanich? Right on your doorstep you have the best Aviation Museum in BC, and from what some of our visitors say, one of the best in the West of both US and Canada. And it does not cost the city a penny! It is totally run by dedicated volunteers, a large part of them Sidney residents!

Sidney, get your head out of the sand, you have a great tourist attraction sitting in your back yard, why ignore us.

Ian Waterlow

Great idea

Community Development's ideas re: Chapel

I feel this shows good insight into our community by having a Captain's Chapel at the fishing pier [at Bevan Avenue]. Provides an ideal setting for photo opportunities along with, I would think, a location for the commissionaire of oaths to perform ceremonies (as per a recent article in The Review). It can provide visitors and residents all year round, by-the-sea opportunities.

Perhaps it could display the Town's directory for places of worship and be a positive and healthy image that Sidney is not indifferent to things with a spiritual value.

A "safeguard" and built in protection for the pier area.

Sidney supporter

Keep cultural

I encourage ideas that incorporate the arts as an economic development tool because cultural attractions are appealing to high end, mature tourists and at the same time enhances the quality of life of the residents. Tourism is a clean, easily controlled industry, and benefits many different types of business with its ripple effects. Our new theatre will provide a venue for much more than Gilbert and Sullivan (which would be great fun!). It will become a landmark where quality productions will be attractive to locals, Victorians and visitors from around the world.

Sidney has an opportunity at this time to identify itself as memorable, a place of character with unique shops, galleries, and small attractions. We don't need the big box, chain stores, and shopping malls — they are just down the road. Let's keep Sidney's seaside charm and develop a market for cultural tourism.

Marcia Stacy

Better resources

Although I have been pleased in general with our Sidney library, particularly with its very fine staff, I have yearned for the much larger supply of resources that the Greater Victoria Public Library offers. I refer to taped books, CDs, videos, research material and newly released books. The local wait lists for books have often been dismaying.

GVPL has daily delivery from its central branch. In contrast, Vancouver Island Regional Library has no central library, which is, in my opinion, a definite drawback. Also, VIRL's delivery is dependent on the mails and is an optimistic two to three days. VIRL must also service 150,000 more members.

All considered, I believe

FALL GARDENING TYP:

With the temperature beginning to drop, now is the time to start thinking about protecting your garden for the winter. This means putting a layer [up to 3" deep] of mulch on the soil. Things that can be used for mulching are: mushroom manure, newspaper with a layer of wood chips on top, stones and rocks of various grades, bark mulch or clean straw. Compost though, is one of the best materials you can use for this application. Compost is organic matter that is often used to amend soil before planting or as mulch to help stop weeds, hold in moisture and replenish lost nutrients. By mulching in September or October you are also keeping the stress level of the plants down. Stressed out plants don't grow beautiful blooms—not for long.

Look for viable alternatives

Re: Gord Harris, PEng. "Treatment plant is best option":

In his Sept. 13 letter to the editor, Gord Harris, PEng. maintains that there is sufficient scientific and technical information already available to support the connection of Deep Cove to the Saanich Peninsula Wastewater Treatment Facility as the only responsible choice.

I disagree; the Liquid Waste Management Plan, in Section 4.7.4, states that the District of North Saanich shall retain the services of a qualified consulting firm to call for proposals for alternative sewage disposal systems for the Deep Cove area.

This call for proposals has not yet been made, and we do not have all the information we need to make an informed and responsible decision.

To support his position, Gord Harris invokes the spectres of death and disease, suggesting Deep Cove could become Walkerton West, if, instead of immediately proceeding to connect our community to the big pipe, we take some time to study alternative methods of dealing with our sewage.

But how seriously should we take the opinions of an engineer who doesn't seem to know where we in Deep Cove get our water?

Walkerton, Ontario draws its water from several community wells, and e.coli bacteria contaminated those wells, with tragic results. Deep Cove, on the other hand, is serviced by water piped in from Sooke Lake, and, fortunately, there is no danger of our piped-in drinking water becoming contaminated by failing septic fields.

It is clear that the area in Deep Cove known as the Madrona strip, and identified both by the CRD and in the Liquid Waste Management Plan as the Proposed Deep Cove Sewer Area, needs some type of collection system.

This does NOT mean that all these property owners, as well as property owners outside this strip, should have to connect their homes to the Saanich Peninsula Wastewater Treatment Facility.

Ask anyone who lives in Saanich: where big pipes go in, big development soon follows, and I am hopeful that North Saanich Council will shortly commence the study of alternatives to the sewerage of the entire Deep Cove area.

Utilizing a de-centralized alternative would support the Urban Containment Boundaries which are proposed in the CRD Regional Growth Strategy, and which were designed to protect areas such as Deep Cove from urban sprawl.

This process of investigating alternatives is completely legitimate, it is outlined in the Liquid Waste Management Plan, and now is the time for the studies to be made.

I share Mr. Harris' concern for our collective health and safety, but let none of us be scared away from searching for what's best for our community.

Patrick Godfrey

What about filtered wetland option?

I am in the process of moving to Madrona Drive and witnessed a petition that was circulating the neighborhood last weekend.

I learned there were 109 signatures, all from the

More LETTERS to the editor

Deep Cove/Pat Bay proposed sewerage areas. It was clear to me the residents were very interested in the Municipality looking at solving the sewer problem by using a decentralized alternative method.

Filtered Wetlands are being used in many places and I think it is a wonderful opportunity for a rural community like this one to use a technology that treats the water to reuse standards.

There is plenty of unused farmland to host a facility of this type and it seems to me, with all the cleaned water there could be many value-added possibilities.

A neighborhood as beautiful as Deep Cove and Pat Bay could easily be destroyed by a "big pipe sewer" which historically encourages excessive development.

The problem seems to be confined to the homes along the waterfront which have been built on exceptionally small lots. The hillsides are primarily larger properties, with plenty of room for on-site systems.

A forum needs to be implemented to really take a look at this matter as it seems to be of major concern to the residents.

I question the wisdom of professional engineers who tout the virtues of secondary treated effluent being dumped into Bazan Bay, even though the new UTP is a shining "modern" example of their trade.

NAMES IN THE NEWS

Jovanovic's dreams take flight

Calgary's Mount Royal College received one of Sidney's high flyers last month when 17-year-old Jovanka Jovanovic settled in for her first term. Jovanovic is able to attend the Calgary institution's Aviation Program in part because of a $5000 scholarship she received from the Canadian Cadet Millennium Scholarship Fund.

Jovanovic first joined the Air Cadet program when she was 12 years old, and has been an active participant for the last six years. Jovanovic spent seven weeks last August in an Air Cadet program in Comox where she earned her private pilots license, she has held a permit to operate a glider for the past two years.

Jovanovic is very goal oriented and has maintained her focus on flying for quite a number of years, said her proud father, Dragomir.

The elder Jovanovic had just returned from driving his daughter and her belongings to the school in Calgary. "We took her computer, TV, books, pots and pans, and Kraft Dinner — she failed at cooking, that's the only thing she doesn't do well," he said jokingly.

While cooking is low on Jovanovic's list of priorities, she intends to complete the three-year Mount Royal program where she will study physics and math along with flying. After receiving her diploma and commercial pilots license there, she plans on attending Royal Roads University's Advanced Avionics program.

With a little help from the Canadian Cadet Millennium Scholarship Fund Jovanka Jovanovic is well on her way to realizing her dream of flying a 747.

The bricks for the new wall at The Pier on Bevan are here, but organizer and chief fund-raiser Reg Teeney says he fears the wall won't stand firm.

"You see, we're short just one $1,000 plaque," he lamented last week. "And we need it to complete the wall."

If you can help, call Reg at 655-1808.

ISLAND Art

Peninsula area has its own charms

I am not sure about some of the ideas put forth in last week's Review to create some special features in Sidney.

I think rather than try to "import" ideas that other towns have used or create artificial "attractions," we need to capitalize on what we have that is special. We have an incredible waterfront, a magnificent panorama of Mt. Baker, a lovely little town and some very beautiful private and public gardens and a rich and growing cultural and arts life.

Our new sign on the highway effectively identifies Sidney with its unique setting. The idea of a flower clock could be an excellent addition to the many beautiful flowerbeds established by the Town's Parks crews.

The notion of a day, or even a festival, organized around one of Gilbert and Sullivan's nautical musicals fits well with our maritime history and locale. As one who has worked for 10 years with the Arts Council and who has seen the growth of the Sunday Bandstand, the Sidney Concert Series, the Literary Reading Series and many other arts related events during that time, I am excited to see new energy and new ideas.

DIANNE CROSS

Peninsula Art Beat

It is an often talked about fact that a community's arts scene is a measure of the "health" of that community. We have many thriving arts groups which contribute to this "health" state in Sidney and on the Peninsula, and this cultural richness needs to be identified and developed as one of the very special features of Sidney.

With fall coming it is a perfect time to try a new activity. Are you someone who has thought about joining one of these groups but has not "gotten around to it"? If your interest is joining a music group, there are two choirs, a concert band and a small interest group in strings. In performance you might like to attend Deep Cove Folk, the Chamber Music Series or a choir recital.

The Peninsula Players are always looking for actors and back stage people. And, of course, an audience is needed as well!

Saanich Peninsula Arts Council (SPAC) is known to most of us as the arts club that provides monthly speakers, classes and a major show. Another opportunity for artists is the Island Visions juried art show that takes place at Sanscha hall next month. (Jurying takes place September 23). Also providing meetings and workshops are the Shutterbugs (photography), the Deep Cove Weavers and Spinners and the Sidney Rug Hookers.

The Arts Council provides a collective voice for all groups and produces a newsletter with information about them. Copies are available at the Sidney and Brentwood Libraries and the new Economic Development Office in the Old Post Office.

Technology on display

Phil Jensen

Peninsula News Review

Edu-Tech 2000 is coming to Sanscha Hall on October 6 and 7. "It's not a trade show, and it's not a career fair," said Terry Curran the project's coordinator. An information package provided to exhibitors describes the event as an exhibition of world-class advanced technology and manufacturing on the Saanich Peninsula.

Reg Tenney, an Edu-Tech planning committee member, said that the idea for an annual exhibition of local high tech businesses originated with Sidney's economic development commission a few years back. This year, nearly 40 exhibitors will attend to display company information and products, and do some networking.

Secondary and post-secondary institutions in the area have been informed of the event, and 1,300 students are expected to attend. District Career and Personal Planning (CAPP) teachers see it as an opportunity for students to gain insights into possible future career options. Students who return a signed Edu-Tech 'passport' to their teachers be given partial credit in their CAPP programs.

Edu-Tech is a one-of-a-kind event, sponsored jointly by Sidney Rotary, Vancouver Island Advanced Technology Centre (VIATeC), School District 63, and BC Human Resources Development.

Early detection is essential

Along with his and her towels, his and her cars, his and her razors, his and her negligees, please add his and her cancers.

The prostate and the breast, both capable of harboring hormone-sensitive cancers, possess some intriguing similarities.

At birth, the prostate gland is about the size of a pea, while a newborn brain is the size of a ripe avocado. By adulthood, the prostate resembles more the avocado, while the male brain (as I'm reminded by numerous females in my life) apparently tends to resemble the pea.

The prostate's job is to provide a fluid that nourishes sperm. Eighteen nanoseconds after nourishment, the well-fed sperm will cheerfully head off to work on an egg hunt, never to return.

The breast's job is to provide a fluid that nourishes children. Eighteen years later the well-nourished child will reluctantly be egged on to find work, always to return.

DR. DAVE
Reflex Hammer

STATS

Perhaps the most unfortunate similarity is in the fact that this year 200,000 women and 200,000 men in the US and Canada will be diagnosed with breast and prostate cancer respectively. Of these, 44,000 women will succumb to their disease while 37,000 men with prostate cancer will not survive their illness.

Prostate cancer is now the most commonly diagnosed cancer in men in the US. It is the second leading cause of cancer death in males, trailing only lung cancer.

Breast cancer is the most commonly diagnosed cancer in women. One in eight women will develop breast cancer in their lifetime.

Both cancers can be made more aggressive by our so-called sex hormones. Testosterone can speed up the spread of prostate cancer and a select group of breast cancers are very sensitive to estrogen. Both cancers are more apt to occur in relatives of those who have had the cancer. Oddly, prostate and breast cancers are a rarity in Japan.

CLINICAL PRESENTATION

Both cancers present with PAINLESS lumps in their respective gland. When a woman presents to the office with a sore breast, my first job is to reassure her that breast cancer generally is not painful until the later stages. Most painful lumps are cysts.

Similarly, when a man presents to the office stating his prostate is sore, my first job is to reassure him that he probably has no idea where his prostate is.

DIAGNOSIS

Here the similarities tend to diverge. Women are encouraged to conduct Breast Self Exams. Rubber gloves are not necessary.

A Prostate Exam, on the other hand, tends to be a tad awkward and is frowned upon in most social circles. A prostate exam, called a DRE (Digital Rectal Exam), should be performed only by a pro. Please do not attempt this at home. Current recommendations are for men to have an annual DRE after the age of 40.

The Breast Self Exam (BSE) should be performed monthly, about a week after a period. The best method for BSE involves moving the fingers in and out rapidly on the breast while moving the hand up and down the breast. This is called the lawnmower.

Men could also attempt the lawnmower, but preferably only on lawns.

After age 40, a woman should have a screening mammogram every 1-2 years and annually after the age of 50. The mammogram is a diagnostic test wherein the breast is placed between two paddles and squeezed and squished flat.

(Realizing that this is a column on similarities of prostates and breasts, most men, by now, have recoiled in horror, tossing the newspaper across the room should any comparable test exist for the prostate.) Fear not brave lads, the prostate will not be squished flat in any machine. Instead, if a suspicious lump is detected on DRE, a really sharp needle is jammed into the prostate, and a piece of it is torn out for biopsy. Feel better?

Marine Ecology Centre

Sand dollars gliding over the sand, ghost shrimp preening themselves in underground burrows: such life styles are enthralling to kids and adults alike. The facilities at the Marine Ecology Station invite discovery of the unusual ways marine organisms live and behave.

Larger aquaria with magnifying glasses portray different marine habitats and animal groups. Story boards support self-guided tours, but volunteers are happy to provide assistance and information.

For Edu-Tech 2000, the Marine Ecology Station will demonstrate the life styles of barnacles and sea urchins under microscopes; the recently released Virtual Field trip of Rocky Shore Life; and Seamount a remotely operated underwater vehicle.

Tale interpreter

Judy Reimche

Peninsula News Review

Two wolves, their feet covered in a skiff of snow, bay at a sky shimmering with color and light. Just beyond them sits a traditional native wolf figure, eyes up-turned to the wavering Aurora Borealis sky.

It's identifiably a 'Sue Coleman' scene.

Coleman herself isn't as easily definable. Her work is spiritual and essentially native; her accent is right out of the British landscape, clipped, warm, non-nonsense.

"My art is interpretive," she said. "It brings together fantasy and reality."

Fantasy and reality describes where her next show will be — at Butterfly Gardens. It marks the first major show on Vancouver Island where more than three or four of her original works will hang on the walls. This one will boast between 20 and 30, some new, others from her private archive.

"I feel honored to be allowed to do a show in such a beautiful venue," she said. The paintings will add their own color to the lush tropical greens of the plants; the wildlife she depicts will mix their yellows, reds, browns, greens with the myriad colors of the butterflies and tropical birds — a melding of stunning equatorial warmth with starker B.C. scenes.

It's not a surprising mix for Coleman — now. But looking back to when she came to Canada from England in 1967, it would have surprised her then to know she'd be famous for her native/interpretive art.

"At that time, the idea that Indians had art didn't exist for Europeans," she said.

She 'discovered' that fact when she was displaying some of her work at an art show in Sooke. She was placed next to a native carver and became instantly fascinated with the pieces he was creating.

"But he wouldn't teach me about the images," she said. "He said it wouldn't

Vision Matters

Changes in Your Vision

You may find it disturbing if you are not seeing things as clearly and sharply as you used to, but as people get older, certain changes in their vision will occur. For example, the pupils of the eyes tend to become smaller, and the crystalline lenses inside the eyes become less clear. You may need more light to see and read comfortably.

The decrease in clarity of the crystalline lenses tends to scatter the light entering the eye. This can sometimes cause a fogging of vision or a decreased tolerance to bright headlight glare. As people age the eyes' focusing ability decreases and it may become more difficult to change focus from distant to near objects and vice versa. These are just a few of the changes in your eyes that may be interfering with your ability to see well and comfortably.

If you are experiencing any of these changes in your eyes or if you have other vision problems you feel need attention, have your eyes examined by your optometrist.

Mixing myth and reality

Sue Coleman's wolves — myth meets reality.

be right, because I wasn't native."

It was a foreign concept to Coleman, who said she didn't realize art had those kinds of boundaries. "I thought art was ... art, that it was for everybody," she said.

Intrigued, she dug deeper into the subject, and realized that native art is truly different, because each native group has its own way of telling their own family stories, and of interpreting them through images.

"I had an idea that I could be a visual interpreter, but I realized, if I wanted to do a good job, I would have to understand it — the stories and the images together."

She also realized she would have to pare down the images in a way that would depict the idea, but not violate native traditions.

"I went from being interested to learning history," she said. "And I did it kind of backwards. I started with 'what's a bear, what does it mean to natives on the coast'."

She got the stories from books and from families who were willing to repeat their traditions for her. Some of those people gave Coleman permission to use their images, and her work really began.

"You must have the basic elements — the features of the animal — and then use them in any balanced form you want. I use just the bare-boned form, leaving out any elements of legend. I'm not trying to be native, I'm trying to bridge a gap. Maybe that's why it works."

"But I always have to ask myself: 'is this an animal or a bird that the natives along the B.C. coast would have seen?, is this where the animal might live or hunt?'. It has to be authentic."

Such as a work in progress: Thinking that a butterfly might be a good addition to work she'll be hanging at Butterfly Gardens, she poured through books to find one that would be ideal — providing it would have been seen and noted by natives of the northwest coast.

It has taken some time for her work to be accepted.

"There was a time when I came up against brick walls. Some galleries didn't want to handle my work; they said 'you're not native, you don't know what you're doing'."

Those brick walls are crumbling as she becomes more internationally known.

"But on the other hand, I've had natives ask to use my designs in their own work," she said. To her, a sign of acceptance.

Having a gala show at Butterfly Gardens is a step back in time — but it's a huge stride in the right direction, according to Coleman.

"Carl [Johnson, owner of Butterfly Gardens] is remembering how to celebrate art," she said. "The venue is superb, and his plans for the show are excellent. It will be a really enjoyable experience for me and for the people who come."

The show, co-hosted by Island Art Publishers, will be at Butterfly Gardens from Saturday, Sept. 30 to Friday, Oct. 6, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information call Victoria Butterfly Gardens at 652-3822 or Island Art Publishers, 652-5181.

Six Biggest Lies

About Retirement Planning

DAVID MICHAELS
INVESTMENT ADVISOR
Life Insurance Level 2

VICTORIA, B.C.

Bill was really mad now, "I can't believe my investments have taken such a loss. What are these so-called money managers doing with my life savings. I thought they were supposed to be increasing the value."

They certainly did not! He lost over $12,000 last year and still has to pay tax because of distributions.

Bill had enough! "I'm going to learn how to fight back and make my money grow again! I'll never again listen to the latest hot tip! I'm going to learn more about proper investing."

Managing money has always been tough but this last year has set records for government foul-ups and totally unpredictable markets. These are scary times! Therefore, you must be sure to know as much as you can in order to make intelligent investment decisions.

Panthers win pair to even record

It was a busy week for the Peninsula Panthers of the Vancouver Island Hockey League as they sandwiched a Friday night home-ice loss between two wins.

On Thursday, the Peninsula squad traveled to Victoria to face their cross town rivals, and in a brilliantly played game, the Panthers edged the Cougars 4-3. The game was a physical, but wide open, end-to-end tilt, which saw Palmer Hepburn break a 3-3 tie early in the third frame for the go-ahead goal and eventual winner.

Friday night the Panthers returned home to the friendly confines of the Panorama Leisure Centre where they dropped a 6-5 decision to a strong Parksville Generals club. Sean Parker narrowed the score to 6-5 with a breathtaking rush midway through the third period, and with their goalie pulled for an extra attacker in the final minute, the Panthers did everything but get the equalizer.

Sunday the Panthers ventured up Island to Port Alberni for a matinee engagement and dominated the Bandits from start to finish. Midway through the second frame and trailing the Panthers by a 9-1 count, the Bandit coaching staff called a time out. After the stoppage, the Bandits decided that it was time to test the younger Panthers and a line brawl ensued. After several more tilts, the game was called as the Bandits did not have enough players to continue. This display put a black eye on the game, however a spirited Panther club left the arena with their record at 500. Matt Holland had a big afternoon with five points while Danny Johns collected four points.

The Panthers will be back on the ice Friday evening at 7:15pm at the Panorama Leisure Centre, once again taking on the Parksville Generals. More detailed game reports are located on the Panthers website at www.ppanthers.bc.ca.

Don McPherson of West-Isle Propellor Repair in Sidney with his first place and Rough Rider Trophies won at the 4th Annual Poker Run.

Best poker hand wins race

Phil Jensen
Peninsula News Review

Sidney power boaters, Don McPherson and Terry Johns, left their competitors in the salt spray to capture both first and second place trophies at the 4th Annual Poker Run on September 9.

In addition to first place, McPherson was awarded a Rough Rider trophy for airborne antics when he raced ahead of the pack in his open 19 foot ski boat.

Both Sidney drivers were piloting vessels much smaller than the competition. Although the rain and wind kept some participants away, 21 boats showed up for the run.

The all-day event started with a 10 a.m. driver's meeting at Rocky Point Boat Launch and continued with stops at four Sunshine Coast destinations. Drivers were required to pick up sealed envelopes containing playing cards and each stop and return to Jake's Crossing Pub by 5 p.m. to check their poker hands. When some boats were unable to complete the trip because of mechanical problems and weather, McPherson went on alone to pick up their envelopes for them.

The poker run was sponsored by more than 20 mainland and Vancouver Island businesses. Partial proceeds from the annual event are donated to the BC Children's Hospital Foundation.

More information about the event is available on the web at www.vancouverpokerun.com.

Brambell and his team mates Chris Davidson,

Capital Health Region Board of Directors

In December 2000, the Minister of Health will be making appointments or re-appointments to four of the fifteen positions on the Capital Health Region's Board of Directors. The term of these appointments is three years. The Capital Health Region is the regional health authority responsible for the provision of health services. It is organized into the following program areas: Cancer Care; Child/Youth and Maternal Health; Community Health; Digestive Health; Health Restoration; Heart Health; Lung Health; Mental Health and Seniors Health and delivers services to southern Vancouver Island including Port Renfrew, Sooke, Western Communities, Greater Victoria, Saanich Peninsula, Sidney and the southern Gulf Islands.

This is an excellent opportunity to participate in your community and to play a role in achieving the Capital Health Region vision of Healthy People in a Healthy Community. The time commitment as a Board member is approximately 10-20 hours per month (including preparation time) on a regular basis with additional time required on occasion for committee/task group meetings and other activities.

The CHR Board will recommend candidates to the Minister based on varied selection criteria designed to meet the needs of the region. We anticipate that three of the incumbent Directors whose terms are ending in December will stand for reappointment. In trying to ensure the members of the Board reflect our community in terms of demographic and geographic representation, we are particularly interested in hearing from interested candidates from the Southern Gulf Islands as well as candidates from the younger end of the age spectrum i.e. 18 to 29 years.

Health authority members are volunteers appointed for their interest, knowledge, skills and experience, as well as their ability to represent the diversity of the population of their community or region. Health authority members assist in developing policies, setting priorities, and allocating resources for the delivery of health care services in their areas. There is no remuneration for members, however, expenses are reimbursed in accordance with Board and Ministry of Health guidelines.

If you are interested in becoming a member, contact the office of the Capital Health Region Board for more information. The nomination deadline is October 11, 2000.
